The Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts, Sciences and Professions has been cited by the California Committee on Un-American Activities, Report 1948, page 262, as a Communist front which grew out of the Independent Voter's Committee of the Arts and Sciences.

The February 22, 1950 issue of the "National Guardian" bore the subject's by-line which was entitled, "China, Russia and Everywhere - The Women of the World are worried about Us". This article indicated that the subject had attended the Women's International Democratic Federation meeting in Moscow in November 1949 and the Conference of Asian Women in Peiping in December 1949.

The "New York Times" on September 10, 1949 identified the subject as a speaker at the American Continental Congress For Peace which was held in Mexico City from September 5 to September 10, 1949.

Confidential Informant [redacted] advised that the American Continental Congress For Peace was a follow-up on similar congresses held in Poland, France and New York and was part of the world-wide Communist inspired, "peace propaganda campaign".

Enclosed are two photostatic copies of a clipping entitled "Paul Robeson Gives Recital on Rose Street," which appeared on page 1, column 4 of the June 28, 1952, issue of the Pittsburgh Courier, a Pittsburgh, Pa., weekly negro newspaper. This clipping has reference to ROBESON's appearance in Pittsburgh at Turner Hall, 2040 Rose Street, on June 20, 1952, under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the National Negro Labor Council.

It is noted that this clipping states that a number of FBI men mingled with the crowd in the hall and on the outside. For the Bureau's information this statement is erroneous.

It is noted, however, that two Agents of this office did take motion pictures of the entrance of the above hall on the day of the above meeting from [redacted] with the permission of [redacted]

These Agents at no time either approached the hall where the concert was or mingled with those attending the concert.

Paul Robeson Gives Recital On Rose Street

Paul Robeson, singer who won fame during life as an All-American athlete, orator, actor, and one of the greatest minds America has produced, but who in recent years has been figuratively in America's "doghouse" for alleged pro-leftist utterances, came to Pittsburgh last Friday night.

The man who many times filled Carnegie Music Hall to capacity, came to sing and fill an engagement in a little dilapidated slum, side-street hall that couldn't have held more than 350 people no matter how tightly you packed them in. One pot-bellied stove heats the entire hall in the winter time.

POLICE READY, "IN CASE"

And the police were there to maintain all of the city ordinances about so many people in so much floor space. There were many policemen called out to Carnegie Avenue police station from the office of FBI men who mingled with the crowd in the hall and on the outside. There were at least two deputy sheriffs, city and county detectives and policemen parked two blocks away in plainclothes, just in case trouble did occur.

One of the policemen remarked to a reporter:

"That hall holds just two hundred people. I just checked them. There's 120 in there now. There'll just be eighty more people that we'll allow to go in."

There were more than eighty that went in after that, though. For just about 300 or a little more than that persons heard Robeson sing. The audience was about half white people, half colored.

Paul Robeson and his manager stopped at the Flamingo Hotel while here, where a banquet at an announced price of $2.00 per head was held for him after the concert.

Mr. Robeson was ushered into the hall, escorted by police, by way of a rear exit door, newly put by the promoters of the concert after the city of Pittsburgh condemned the building for concert use, when they heard Paul Robeson was going to sing there. The promoters said they also had to repair the fire escape in order to hold the concert.

A gigantic American flag was draped from one side of the stage and the concert began with the audience rising and singing the "Star-Spangled Banner." There were a large number of persons there who have been accused from time to time of associating with radicals. But there were others, too, who were just plain music lovers, old couples and young sweethearts, who were just admirers of Paul Robeson. Mr. Robeson gave a full concert. He was in good spirits and sang about fifteen numbers. They included "What Is America To Me," which he sang by following the lyrics strictly through the first and second verses and slightly altering them to include "Negroes in one-room dog cabins in the deep South," lynchings, and other racial aspects of the American scene.

Among other numbers which he sang well, but which might be construed to have a purposeful meaning, were the leftist ballad, "Joe Hill," and "Scandalized My Name." There was also a song in Jewish about a millionaire who had buttered-filled biscuits shot into his mouth from a gun. His antics during the singing of this song evoked laughter from the audience.

Alex Wright, head of the Progressive party, made a speech but Mr. Robeson made no speeches between songs, not until the end. Then he told the crowd that things were beginning to look better for his concert career. It is definitely re-established, he said. He told of large audiences he had sung to on this side of the Canadian border, on the West Coast, in Chicago and throughout the Midwest.

"Tell all of those folks who used to meet me at Carnegie Hall and revive episodes about when I used to play basketball against the Loonell Club or against whom I played when our football team played the University of Pittsburgh here, that I know they didn't come. Tell them that I'm still the same old Paul, though, the same boy they used to know, but who just won't stop speaking my mind out," Mr. Robeson said.

During the intermission, two women sold hot dogs and punch at a stand in the rear of the hall.

Also during the intermission a reporter and photographer tried to go backstage to interview Mr. Robeson, but a burly, white plainclothes bodyguard barred the door with the words:

"I don't care who you are or where you're from, nobody... I mean nobody goes in there with Paul Robeson."

In addition to the more than 300 persons in the hall, the windows were open and perhaps as many more persons again mostly neighbors from surrounding streets and public housing searched the sidewalks and listened.

Among other numbers which he sang well, but which might be construed to have a purposeful meaning, were the leftist ballad "Joe Hill" and "Scandalized My Name." There was also a song in Jewish about a millionaire who had buttered-filled biscuits and into his mouth from a gun. His antics during the singing of this song evoked laughter from the audience.

Alex Wright, head of the Progressive party, made a speech, but Mr. Robeson made no speeches between songs, not until the end. Then he told the crowd that things were beginning to look better for his concert career. It is definitely re-established, he said. He told of large audiences he had sung for on this side of the Canadian border, on the West Coast, in Chicago and throughout the Mid West.

"Tell all of those folks who used to meet me at Carnegie Hall and revive episodes about when I used to play basketball against the Leech Club or against whom I played when our football team played the University of Pittsburgh here, that I know they didn't come. Tell them that I'm still the same old Paul, though, the same boy they used to know, but who just won't stop speaking my mind out," Mr. Robeson said.

During the intermission, two women sold hot dogs and punch at a stand in the rear of the hall.

Also during the intermission, a reporter and photographer tried to go backstage to interview Mr. Robeson, but a burly, white plainclothes bodyguard barred the door with the words:

"I don't care who you are or where you're from, nobody... mean nobody goes in there with Paul Robeson."

In addition to the more than 300 persons in the hall, the windows were open and perhaps that many more persons again mostly neighbors from the surrounding streets and housing blocks listened. The walls were lined with people who listened.

The American Slav Congress has been cited by the Attorney General of the United States under Executive Order 9835 as a Communist Organization.

On [REDACTED] a former self-admitted Communist Party member, advised that the subject was one of the principal speakers at a Steelworkers for WALLACE Rally held at the Aragon Ballroom Sixth and Penn Avenue on September 19, 1948. According to CVETIC, this conference was attended by approximately 350 people, the majority of whom were Communist Party members.

The Communist Party - USA has been cited by the Attorney General of the United States under Executive Order 9835 as a subversive organization which seeks to alter the form of government of the United States by unconstitutional means.

[REDACTED] also reported the subject as one of the principal speakers at the above conference held on September 19, 1948, at the Aragon Ballroom.

Proposed PAUL ROBESON Meeting to be Held October 15, 1949.

[REDACTED] advised on [REDACTED] that at a meeting which was attended by BEN CAREATHERS and WILLIAM ALBERTSON, leading District 5 Communist Party functionaries, it was decided that the subject should be brought to Pittsburgh under the sponsorship of a Citizens Committee composed of leading negroes, which was the pattern being used throughout the country.

An article which appeared on page 13, column 4, of the September 8, 1949, issue of the "Pittsburgh Press" a daily and Sunday newspaper, captioned "Concert Here By Robeson Is Opposed", reflects that considerable opposition to ROBESON's appearance in Pittsburgh was voiced by the Allegheny County Committee of the American Legion in an effort to prevent a possible riot such as the one which had resulted at ROBESON's recent appearance in Peekskill New York.

It is noted that the proposed ROBESON's appearance on October 15, 1949, never took place, and according to an article which appeared on page 19, column 1, of the September 28, 1949, issue of the "Pittsburgh Press" captioned "Paul Robeson Mass Meeting Here Cancelled," the subject's Pittsburgh sponsors had stated that ROBESON would not come to Pittsburgh in October as he would be too busy in the New York City political campaigns, one of which was that of BENJAMIN DAVIS who was running for City Council. The article further reflects that ALEXANDER WRIGHT, "a leader in many left-wing organizations, in Pittsburgh," had previously applied for a permit for the ROBESON meeting.

DAVIS was a National Board member of the Communist Party-USA, and WRIGHT has been identified by [REDACTED] as a member of the District 5 Communist Party.

PAUL ROBESON CONCERT held June 20, 1952

[REDACTED] advised in March, 1952, that THEODORE WRIGHT, District 5 - Communist Party member and President of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the National Negro Labor Council, had indicated that a meeting was held on March 16, 1952, for the purpose of discussing the obtaining of a place for the proposed PAUL ROBESON concert which was to be held in Pittsburgh on May 2, 1952.

[REDACTED] advised that events leading up to and during the founding convention of the National Negro Labor Council held at Cincinnati, Ohio, on October 27, 28, 1951, firmly convinced the informant that the entire direction of the convention was under the domination of the Communist Party - USA. The informant further advised that Communist Party members at Pittsburgh were urged to attend the founding convention and take part on the committees and participate in the activity of the organization.

[REDACTED] advised:

[REDACTED]: The National Negro Labor Council, Pittsburgh Chapter, was attempting to change the date of the ROBESON concert to sometime in June.

[REDACTED]: The subject will appear in Pittsburgh on June 20, 1952, under the sponsorship of the National Negro Labor Council

[REDACTED]: The District 5 - Communist Party leaders decided that all Communist Party members, Progressive Party members and all contacts and sympathizers should make an all out effort to make the PAUL ROBESON concert on June 20, 1952, a success.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

MATTHEW CVETIC, in testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities in Washington, D. C., in February, March, 1950, stated "In Western Pennsylvania, the Communist Party has functioning a Political Commission which is responsible for carrying the Communist Party line into the Progressive Party ..... In other words, members of the Communist Party in Western Pennsylvania have been assigned to work in the Progressive Party and they meet regularly to discuss the policies and line that is to be taken into the Progressive Party."

~~ELMER KISH~~, an active District 5- Communist Party member, was selling tickets to the PAUL ROBESON concert and had stated that if the striking steelworkers could not pay for the tickets, that the tickets should be given to them. It is noted that the United Steelworkers of America - CIO were out on strike at this time.

Informant furnished a mimeographed leaflet issued by the Progressive Party of Western Pennsylvania under date of June 2, 1952, which carries a postscript to the effect that PAUL ROBESON will appear in a concert in Pittsburgh on June 20, 1952, and that tickets are on sale at the Progressive Party Office, 2103 Center Avenue, Pittsburgh.

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Progressive Party leaders in Pittsburgh distributed leaflets which attacked the City of Pittsburgh's administration for its stand in prohibiting mixed occupancy at the PAUL ROBESON concert.

[REDACTED] advised that on [REDACTED] BEN CAREATHERS was selling tickets for the ROBESON concert and that he left 100 tickets at the headquarters of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Civil Rights Congress for Civil Rights Congress members to sell. In commenting as to whether trouble was expected at the affair, CAREATHERS stated that the affair will be held in the Hill District (Negro Section) and if there is trouble, "We'll be prepared to take care of things."

The Civil Rights Congress has been cited by the Attorney General of the United States under Executive Order 9835 as a Communist organization.

[REDACTED] advised that approximately 300 people attended the ROBESON concert held 6/20/52, although 1000 tickets were reportedly sold.

[REDACTED] advised that District 5 Communist Party members, including STEVE NELSON, District 5 Communist Party Chairman, attended the ROBESON concert on June 20, 1952. Informant further advised that ROBESON stated that as long as there are friends of his like BENJAMIN DAVIS and BEN CAREATHERS, who are not free men, he, ROBESON, will fight for what he thinks is right for his people. The concert was held at 2040 Rose Street.

[REDACTED] advised:

[REDACTED] THEODORE WRIGHT had stated that Pittsburgh authorities were trying

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

to stop the ROBESON concert by condemning the building at which it was to be held, but that the Communists were selling the tickets anyway.

 THEODORE WRIGHT had reported that the collection taken at the ROBESON concert, 6/20/52, netted either $135 or $139; that the concert, the collection taken at the concert, and the banquet which followed the concert was a flop; and that it had been necessary to borrow money to help pay the expenses, one of the big items of expense being the cutting of an opening in the rear wall of the hall at which the concert was held in order to provide another exit and widening and repairing of the stairway as required by the Pittsburgh authorities. b7D

On page 8, column 2, of the June 1, 1952, issue of "The Worker" appears a picture of ROBESON and a short write-up stating that ROBESON will appear in Pittsburgh on June 20, 1952, sponsored by the National Negro Labor Council, and that already the "anti-labor, redbaiting 'Pittsburgh Press' is trying to incite fascistic elements to block the concert."

"The Worker" is the Sunday edition of the "Daily Worker". The "Daily Worker" is an east coast communist publication.

The Jewish Peoples Fraternal Order of the IWO has been designated by the Attorney General as being within the purview of Executive Order 9835.

Informant recalled that ROBESON stated he wanted to be assured that there would be no useful purpose served in some trumped up war, which useless conflict is the preservation of Jersey oil.

According to Confidential Informant [redacted] ROBESON congratulated the assembly on their stand against Universal Military Training and thanked them for their courage and assistance in the "struggle" he and others "were waging to make this a better world".

The Washington Afro-American newspaper, 56th Year, Number 54, Edition dated February 21, 1948, Pages 1 and 2, carried an article under the byline of WOODY L. TAYLOR entitled "Youth Hail PAUL ROBESON" in which TAYLOR indicates that ROBESON said in his address to the NUAUUMT that Universal Military Training is part of the war policy. ....A move toward new enslavement of millions of people. The article indicated ROBESON did not want to see the youth of this country engage again in some kind of conflict to preserve oil belonging to SINCLAIR, HARRISON or other rich Wall Streeters."

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

ROBESON is quoted as stating, "to be shot down for them is as much a part of the Fascist pattern as for the youth of Germany, Italy France or Spain to be shot down for HITLER, MUSSOLINI, DeGAULLE or FRANCO".

C., that, "I am here today to help you, the workers, in your struggle for equal rights. You will find me ever on the battle fronts for workers fighting for their rights. I have been on picket lines the world over and why am I doing this? Not for myself, but for you. Yes, in Africa, my native home, my heart bleeds for it, but they are beginning to see the light of how to fight for their own liberty and they have every right to fight. Is the fight for freedom worth it? .....Ask the Chinese, ask the people of the Balkan countries. In the Nation's capitol, I am indeed glad to see the workers carry on such a struggle against reaction".

Confidential Informant [redacted] added a press conference, on August 4, 1949, was held for subject in Room 501 of the Dunbar Hotel, Washington, D. C. Informant said ROBESON was asked "Do you think the Negroes will fight against Russia?" His answer, according to informant, was, "Will you fight yourself, for the Russian people are a part of the world labor struggle for freedom from reaction".

Informant said he was then asked what he, ROBESON, thought of the church and ROBESON answered, "The church is a tradition in my life. In most cases, the church stands for the very forces that would like to enslave us, the workers."

Robeson Enraged as Party Membership is Questioned

A large force of police gathered outside Weaver High School Saturday night to quell a riot that never took place.

Inside the school, however, a near-riot threatened when two Hartford Times reporters asked singer Paul Robeson if he was a Communist.

In an emotional outburst following his concert at the school, Robeson told the reporters it was "nobody's damn business" whether or not he was a Communist.

The singer also called the newsmen names because they (Review on Page 16) asked, "Don't you think you are hurting your cause by allying yourself with Communists?"

"By the way you ask that question, it proves you are a phony," Robeson said to his questioner.

The reporter pressed his point. "Aren't there other ways of fighting for peace and your people than being associated with Communists?" he asked.

Robeson stamped his foot in anger. "You ineffective so-called liberals think you know how to get things done. But you accomplish nothing. Communism is not the reason for the attacks on me. The reason is this: The White ruling class of America doesn't like Negroes who stand up and talk back and fight for their rights."

A TALL, muscular impressive man, Robeson bent at the waist. "Is this what you want us to do? Bend and bow and shuffle along and be a nice, kindly colored man and say please when I ask for better treatment for my people?"

"Well, it doesn't work," he thundered. He drove his fist into his hand. "That's what I do to people who get in my way. That's what I learned in football." (Robeson was an All-American football player at Rutgers University.)

The interview was held backstage at the high school in the presence of some 25 well-wishing fans. It had opened on a quieter note.

At the conclusion of the concert attended by an estimated 800 persons and marked by no untoward disturbances as anticipated by the hundreds of policemen on guard, Robeson made these remarks from the stage:

"I WANT to thank the Board of Education for permitting me to sing and upholding the constitutional right of an artist to perform. I want to thank the police for the protection they have given me and I would like to return and discuss with the press issues of concern to the state and the country as a whole.

"I will never relinquish my right to speak here or anywhere else. I haven't said anything in the last few years I didn't say back in 1937, or 1941 or 1945. I'm still the same Paul Robeson. I was born on American soil. My father was a slave and on his blood and the blood of my people, there is still a lot America owes me.

"I'll continue fighting and struggling for the Negro people as long as there is breath in my body. And nobody will stop me."

The statement was greeted with a wild burst of applause. Earlier in the evening, with his first appearance on stage, the singer drew a standing ovation.

ROBESON appeared at Weaver under the auspices of the People's Party of Hartford, an affiliate of the Progressive Party.

He volunteered to sing, according to Dr. John M. Marsalka, executive vicechairman of the party, and received only traveling expenses. Profits from admission fees will go toward reducing a $2,000 deficit suffered by the party during the recent political campaign.

Announcement of the concert more than two weeks ago started a full-scale controversy. The City Council asked the Board of Education to deny Robeson permission to use the public school auditorium, but the board refused.

Fearful that the singer's appearance might touch off a possible riot, Hartford police mobilized 250 men at the school.

In the murky gloom the policemen patrolled the sidewalks, breaking up an occasional band of teen-agers. Patrolmen in white raincoats kept the road clear. Some cars were seen to ring the block several times but they were not allowed to stop. Shouts of "Commie" came from one car.

OTHERWISE the concert was held without incident. Inside the auditorium were uniformed and plainclothes policemen. Nothing out of the ordinary was reported. The audience was highly partisan and showed its approval of the program.

Police operations were directed from the Ridgefield St. entrance of Keney Park. Inside the park the police maintained the patrol wagon and a bus load of 45 men. Three other buses carrying police were standing by at strategic spots. Firemen stood guard at alarm boxes in the area.

It was one of the greatest defense cordons ever thrown around a single man in Hartford, comparing only with the elaborate protective measures taken during the Hartford speeches of President Truman and President-elect Eisenhower. (Last night's operation cost the city of Hartford roughly $3,000 in overtime, bus rentals and fuel.)

CITY MANAGER Sharpe visited the school shortly before the concert, but left after he was convinced no trouble was afoot.

Louis Burnham, secretary to Paul Robeson, asked about the singer's future plans, said Robeson intends to continue singing in this country and throughout the world if he regains his passport, denied him in 1949 by the U. S. State Department.

Burnham said Robeson has invitations to sing in England, France, Poland and Czechoslovakia. "He will go wherever he is wanted."

"Whatever Acheson — that is to say, the State Department says — I have a right to be friendly with whomever I want," Robeson said, adding "I don't like Franco-Spain or the Germans. The United States is friendly with them. I stand on my rights to choose my friends."

He said his friendships were based on his desire for peace. "I don't want my son to be killed fighting for industrial interests," he said.

Robeson is scheduled to speak and sing next in Cleveland, Ohio, at the 2d annual Convention of the National Negro Labor Council.

Prior to his concert here he had dinner with Hartford friends.

Dear Mr. W -

I mailed you a few clippings re the Robson concert (?) and I am enclosing more of interesting news. Thought you would like to read them.

The Hartford Police made great preparations for a riot that included bus loads of police hidden in a nearby park. Nothing occurred of any consequence and Hartford has a large negro population.

Your column of today (Monday)

Paul Robeson Sings 8 Scheduled Tunes, Plus 6 Encores

By EVANS CLINCHY -

About 800 chatting, orderly people filed into Weaver High School auditorium Saturday night to witness a much talked about concert by the Jewish People's Chorus, Miss Hope Foye, a former local soprano, and Mr. Paul Robeson, one of the greatest singers of our time.

It was not a very well run concert. It did not get under way until almost 9 p. m., and Mr. Robeson himself did not arrive until 9:30 p. m.

As 9 p. m. drew near, the people began to show their impatience by sporadic clapping.

WHEN THE concert finally did start, it opened with a group of songs by the Jewish People's Chorus, a ragged, amateurish ensemble. Under the direction of Samuel Goldman, the group sang one or two ringing Israeli patriotic songs and gave a moving rendition of the spiritual "Go Down, Moses". Mr. Goldman spoke a few introductory words to each number, stressing the social and tribal protest that ran through the music.

It was obvious from Mr. Goldman's remarks that social as well as musical uplift was to be the order of the evening.

Miss Foye, who received her musical training at the Hartt School, then came on looking very pert and attractive in a pink dress. She sang a variety of songs, most of them filled with social and political significance, with a clear, light, sweet soprano and in a delicate, intimate style.

It is always something of a shock and a thrill to have Mr. Robeson appear on any stage. His towering physical presence, that unbelievable, overpowering voice, these are the stuff of majestic command.

HE SANG eight scheduled numbers and half a dozen encores, pieces ranging from old English folksongs like "Over the

The controversial appearance of Paul Robeson turned into an ordinary concert performance Saturday night as the noted Negro baritone sang before an audience of 600 at Weaver High School. There were no demonstrations or incidents of consequence inside or outside the hall. Police stood by to quell expected disturbances, but their services were never required. More than 250 police were stationed at strategic vantage points in the area. Scores of curiosity seekers converged on the scene, but they limited their activities to circling the high school in their cars or on foot.

Standing Ovation

Robeson was greeted by a standing ovation as he walked onto the stage. Reporters counted only three young boys seated near the back of the hall who failed to rise and applaud.

In apparent reference to the barrage of criticism leveled at his appearance here by the City Council, three members of the Board of Education and numerous local organizations and individuals, Robeson prefaced his singing with the statement:

"I will appear here and many other places around the country as long as I can sing."

This brought another ovation. The audience was a far cry from the more than 3,000 that filled Bushnell Memorial when Robeson sang there seven years ago. It also failed to exceed the 600 who filed into the hall last month to hear Vincent A. Hallinan, Progressive Party candidate for President when he spoke here. The seating capacity at Weaver is 1,050. The Connecticut affiliate of the Progressive Party, sponsored the concert and reaped the profits from the $1.20 and $2.40 admissions.

Robeson volunteered his services for the concert, according to Dr. John M. Marsalka, executive vice-chairman of the party in Connecticut. Other than traveling expenses, he received no fee.

Robeson's concert fare consisted of one of his typical artistic programs. There were Negro spirituals and folk songs, Israeli and Hebrew songs as well as works from classic Russian composers. Also on the program was Miss Hope Foye, Meriden-born soprano who received her training at the Hartt School of Music in Hartford, and the Jewish People's Chorus. The latter was a composite chorus made up of various local groups from throughout the state.

It was a late-arriving audience, and the scheduled 8 o'clock concert did not start until after 9. Robeson himself did not arrive at the hall until 9:20. He arrived in a motorcade that pulled up to a side door rather than the main entrance. Surrounded by a group of men who emptied out of the motorcade, Robeson hurried into the hall as shouts of "No photography!" "No photographs!" went up from his escorts.

Chat Freely

The audience was a well-dressed, predominantly middle-aged gathering. A few of the women wore evening dresses. They came into the hall like any other concert audience, chatting freely, and by 9 o'clock indicated their impatience by clapping for the program to start. Observers estimated that less than one-quarter of the audience was composed of Negroes. Some of the ushers, apparently members of the People's Party, estimated that half the audience was from out of town. They recognized people from such cities as New Britain, New Haven, Bridgeport and Stamford.

Dr. Marsalka, a former member of the Yale University faculty who is employed full-time by the People's Party, said that some people who bought tickets did not attend for fear they would be involved in a demonstration or possible riot.

"This was particularly true of our older members," he said. "In case of trouble they didn't want to get pushed around. We are of the opinion that the people in Hartford are law-abiding and will see that the due process of all political parties will be respected."

"We had such assurances before hand from Hartford officials. We talked with Mayor Cronin and Police Chief Michael J. Godfrey and told them we want no trouble and expect no trouble. Spokesmen for some of the organizations that opposed the concert also told us that there would be no trouble as far as their memberships were concerned."

Louis Burnham, secretary to Robeson, arrived at the hall before the singer. He reported that Robeson came to Hartford by train from New York City and was a dinner

Louis Burnham, secretary to Robeson, arrived at the hall before the singer. He reported that Robeson came to Hartford by train from New York City and was a dinner guest of a local family. He declined to identify the family. Burnham said that Robeson "might" remain in Hartford overnight and attend one of the churches here today.

Heavy Fog Blankets Area

Burnham, in addition to being the singer's secretary, is editor of "Freedom," a monthly paper published in Harlem by Robeson. Robeson writes a column in the paper. Robeson also still owns his home in Enfield and spends some time there, according to Burnham. According to Springfield newspapermen, for the past two years the home has been advertised for sale.

Prior to Saturday night's performance here, Robeson's last concert took place October 9 at the Mother of Zion AME Church in New York. Robeson's brother, the Rev. Benjamin Robeson, is pastor there. He also spoke and sang Thursday night at an American-Soviet Friendship Meeting at the Rockland Palace in New York.

The scene outside Weaver High School could best be described as ghostly. The fog blanketing the area was so heavy that at times it was impossible to see from the steps of the school to the street. Police cruisers and motorcycle patrolmen slowly circled the school all night. Clumps of policemen pounded the sidewalks or stood at the corners. Inside the hall, a detail of plain clothesmen mingled with the audience or stood guard at every exit.

Police Chief Godfrey was in charge of the big force. Also stopping by to check the situation was City Manager Sharpe, who had helped map the police protection.

Throughout the evening, the police continued grimly about their allotted tasks. But there was never anything to worry about. Only an occasional teen-ager jeered from a passing car. And no one paid much attention to that.

Shortly after 6 p.m. Dep. Fire Chief John Dignan stationed four firemen at fire boxes at Greenfield Street and Oakland Terrace, Greenfield and Blue Hills Avenue, Norfolk Street and Blue Hills Avenue and Ridgefield and Westbourne Parkway. The firemen were stationed near the boxes solely to prevent a false alarm.

At 6:30 p.m., Chief Godfrey, in uniform and carrying a nightstick like all the uniformed policemen arrived as did a motorcycle squad of six. Minutes later, five Connecticut Company buses carrying 25 uniformed policemen and detectives, arrived as did the patrol wagon which was parked in Keney Park.

One bus with 45 policemen and five superior officers remained in the park while three other buses each with 45 policemen and commanding officers were posted in the area.

Traffic policemen in white coats and flashlights kept a steady stream of curiosity seekers moving without incident. Other policemen kept small from obstructing sidewalks leading to the hall.

Hartford County Sheriff H. Potter was on hand for an event that trouble of any kind broke out. Under an old and rarely used state statute, it is the duty of the sheriff to maintain silence and order a gathering to disperse. If they fail to obey with his order, he can then command the chief of police to disperse the order out.

A large force of police gathered outside Weaver High School Saturday night to quell a riot that never took place.

Inside the school, however, trouble threatened, when two Hartford Times reporters asked singer Paul Robeson if he was a Communist.

In an emotional outburst following his concert at the school, Robeson told the reporters it was "nobody's damn business" whether or not he was a Communist. The singer also called the newsmen names because they asked, "Don't you think you are hurting your cause by allying yourself with Communists?"

"By the way you ask that question, it proves you are a phony," Robeson said to his questioner.

The reporter pressed his point. "Aren't there other ways of fighting for peace and your people than being associated with Communists?" he asked.

Robeson stamped his foot in anger. "You ineffective so-called liberals think you know how to get things done. But you accomplish nothing. Communism is not the reason for the attacks on me. The reason is this: The White ruling class of America doesn't like Negroes who stand up and talk back and fight for their rights."

A TALL, muscular impressive man, Robeson bent at the waist. "Is this what you want us to do? Bend and bow and shuffle along and be a nice, kindly colored man and say please when I ask for better treatment for my people?"

"Well, it doesn't work," he thundered. He drove his fist into his hand. "That's what I do to people who get in my way. That's what I learned in football." (Robeson was an All-American football player at Rutgers University.)

The interview was held backstage at the high school in the presence of some 25 well-wishing fans. It had opened on a quieter note.

At the conclusion of the concert, attended by an estimated 860 persons and marked by no untoward disturbances as an-

licemen on guard, Robeson made these remarks from the stage:

"I WANT to thank the Board of Education for permitting me to sing and upholding the constitutional right of an artist to perform. I want to thank the police for the protection they have given me and I would like to return and discuss with the press issues of concern to the state and the country as a whole.

Prior to his concert here he had dinner with Hartford friends.

Policing Robeson May Cost $4,000

It looks as if the city will have to pay about $4,000 in overtime to 250 off-duty policemen used during the Paul Robeson concert here Saturday night.

The extra policemen were assigned to keep order in the vicinity of Weaver High School, site of the concert, in the event there was any attempt at violence.

Robeson, identified with Communist-front groups, was sponsored in his Hartford appearance by the People's Party of Connecticut. The school auditorium was rented for $70.

City Personnel Director Charles F. Yard, on instructions from City Manager Sharpe, today planned to poll members of the Personnel Board to determine whether the off-duty policemen should be paid extra or whether their service was of "emergency" character.

There are indications the board will rule in favor of overtime payment.

TATE, 2006 Main St., Hartford, after a concert given by the subject at the Weaver High School, Hartford, Conn., on Saturday evening 11/15/52. ROBESON spent the night at the TATE home. TATE is a key figure of the New Haven Division and a Smith Act subject.

[redacted] advised that several persons [redacted] were present with ROBESON in the living room of the TATE home at approximately 12:30 A.M. on 11/16/52 when a young colored woman whose identity is unknown to the informant suggested to ROBESON that there were other ways of helping the negro people rather than through Communism. [redacted] advised that ROBESON replied, "My dear girl, my best friends are Communists. I am a Communist and proud to be one. One of my best friends, BEN DAVIS, is a Communist and he is in jail right now." Shortly thereafter a male negro, whose identity was also unknown to the informant, stated that he admired ROBESON for his artistic ability, but differed with him in everything he stood for. At this point, according to [redacted] ROBESON replied, "Here's one negro boy who if he gets a bullet through his chest tomorrow will die happy because I put this government on the spot when I made that speech in Paris that shook the world."

ROBESON also stated that his work is being carried on all over the world despite his inability to obtain a passport to leave the U.S. He indicated that people are listening to him in Asia and in Africa through tape recordings of his songs and speeches which are being sent out of the U.S.

[redacted] also reported ROBESON as having stated, "We progressives have been too soft. We must toughen up and come out fighting. I will personally be the first one to punch Walter Winchell right on the nose."
